FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

TMG Government and President Jim Gill supports Digital Learning Now! by becoming digital leaders.

Spotsylvania, Virginia - September 13, 2011 - TMG Government and Mr. Jim Gill supports Digital Learning Now! by becoming Digital Leaders for Digital Learning Now! As a Digital Leader, Mr. Gill and TMG Government are advocates for Digital Learning Now's 10 Elements of High Quality Digital Learning.

Digital Learning Now! Is a national campaign to advance policies that will create a high quality digital learning environment to better prepare students with the knowledge and skills to succeed in college and careers.

The initiative was launched in 2010 by Jeb Bush, Governor of Florida 1999 - 2007, and Bob Wise, Governor of West Virginia 2001 - 2005. The project is managed by the Foundation for Excellence in Education in partnership with the Alliance for Excellent Education. Vander Ark Associates, a strategic consulting firm focusing on education, is the lead partner in implementing the vision.

About Jim Gill:

Mr. Gill has more than 28 years experience in results-oriented environments, thoroughly demonstrated at critical management positions in highly competitive and diverse organizations. Jim has varied experience as an Army Senior Non-Commissioned Officer and Combat Veteran, Executive, Entrepreneur, Venture Capitalist, and as a Human Capital and Learning Consultant to major Government Agencies including the Department of Health and Human Services, Library of Congress, Office of US Courts, GAO, DHS, NSA, DAU, US Northern Command, US Navy, and the United States Army.

Mr. Gill has led complex organizations in both the private and public sector culminating in his current position as the President of TMG Government (www.tmggovernment.com). Jim retired from the United States Army in 2003, having served for 20 years in various operational assignments including the 193rd Infantry Brigade Panama, the 101st Air Assault Division, the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, the 24th Infantry Division, and the United States Army Recruiting Command.

He was Vice President of Public Sector at Saba Software from 2009 to 2011 and Director of Government Solutions for SumTotal Systems from 2003 to 2008. Jim also served as Director of Training for the United States Army Recruiting and Retention School from 2001 to 2003. He is a recognized thought leader in Human Capital Management Solutions within the Public Sector, serving as a member of the advisory board at Talent Management in Government (www.tmgov.org), and has been a contributing author to Chief Learning Officer Magazine, as well as having been interviewed by Military Training Technology, the Denver Post, ASTD

Magazine, Federal Computer Weekly, Government Executive Magazine and Federal News Radio. Jim is an advisor to several Technology companies including Viddler and Pirq. He is the co-author of the recently released book: "Don't Sell Yourself Short, Be All That You Can Be!"
